McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

A Round-About Paper

The continued sinking of so many ships by the German submarines is causing trouble, and thinking people are wondering what the hundreds of British warships are doing to allow this almost daily job of sinking another vessel. No doubt the British admiralty knows. The Germans seem to be adept at this submarine business. The thousand miles for the Allies, on board the "Armenian", were "mullish" contraband of war and the Kaiser's men did their duty in drowning these mules. Whether the drowning of a score or two of black and white American citizens along with the mules was right or wrong does not seem to bother the cultured German savants, who say that they have God with them and therefore can do no wrong!

I notice that the German war providers have ordered half a million of sheepskin coats for the use and comfort of their soldiers, so that the war is supposed by them to last another winter.

The changes Mr. Asquith and company have made lately in the English Cabinet do not please me, and in my opinion point to conscription and all that that means. I may be wrong, but I do not think that either in this country or in Britain is conscription possible. It may be that some readers of the Townsman do not know what conscription means; well, it just means that every man from 21 to 50 years of age is compelled to be a soldier. I will not enter into all the details of this thing they call conscription, only I may state that it means in a big country like America that we would have at least one million of a standing army. Are we prepared to support a million men who produce nothing? I think I am right when I say that the citizens of the United States are not willing to follow the French Republic, the Czar of Russia and the German Kaiser in this conscription business. Lord Kitchener and all the Tories in England are for conscription. Asquith and his crew are against it, and the giving of such men as Mr. Balfour, Bonar Law, Lord Curzon and other Tories a voice in the war council of the nation, shows that Mr. Asquith fears that before the Kaiser is conquered and promises to stay in Berlin, the calling to the British army of every young man in the country may be required. This is the first time that Mr. Asquith has been afraid to face the Liberals or Tories. He supported Home Rule in Ireland, also the disestablishment of the Episcopal church in Wales, and other measures, in the teeth of Tories and their threats of vengeance but seems afraid that the onus of conscription may fall on him and his friends.

Abraham Lincoln is quoted as saying, "Never swap horses when crossing a stream," and in this fearful struggle with Germany, Asquith should not have swapped horses. We must just, in the meantime, take Asquith's words, "Wait and see," and hope for the best and have patience.

EDUCATION

Puts Blame on Parents

It used to be that the college student was the target of criticism for all manner of excesses; now it is the students of our high schools. Presumably the high schools contain our choicest boys and girls, yet every once in a while a principal or local education board has to speak against the way the girls dress or the questionable social habits between the two sexes. Principal Jackson of the Lynn (Mass.) English High School, in addressing the 1000 girls and boys under his care, charged them with "cigarette smoking, immorality and immodesty." Complaints had been made by the school committee of the way things were going, and the principal was authorized to make wholesale expulsions unless there was an immediate improvement in conduct. Smoking, flirting, and improper conduct generally were referred to. Principal Jackson pictured a boy of the school walking down the street between two girls, each dressed like a fashion-plate, and he puffing a cigarette. He told the girls they should consider every puff an insult. He referred, too, to the immodest custom of girls calling up boys on the telephone and making "dates" for the evening.

Yet we marvel at the lack of refinement that pervades our social life today. If this sort of thing continues among our high school students, in the next generation there will be no respect for social conventions, or possibly no conventions to respect. What can mothers be thinking of when they dress their sixteen or seventeen-year-old daughters like a fashion-plate? Or what has become of the feminine modesty when young girls, who ought to be spending their evenings at home with their books, take the initiative and make "dates" with boys? Or what about the home training of a boy who parades the streets with a girl on either side of him, puffing cigarette smoke into their faces? It is about time we got back to some old-fashioned standards for our boys and girls, both in the high schools and the homes. —Leslie's

Urges Courtesy Taught in Schools

Declaring that irreverence and lack of respect for constituted authorities and others is the national weakness of the United States, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, pastor of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. church, recently in his sermon urged that instructors in the public schools teach boys and girls the value of courtesy in their relations with everyone. Rev. Montgomery contrasted the demeanor of pupils of parochial schools with that of public school pupils, to the disadvantage of the latter. —Washington Star.

Music in the City

Yesterday saw the opening of Philadelphia's season of open-air music. In Fairmount Park and on the plaza of the City Hall the voice of the brass band made the humid air seem at least a little cooler, and the city not a half bad place of a summer evening. Tonight the first public "sing" of the season will add mild exercise in the vocal arts.

There are a lot of pretty deep and philosophic reasons why the city should thus supply a need that no other agency fitsly meets. Shakespeare has phrased one aspect of this:

The man that hath no music in himself, Nor is it moved with concord of sweet sounds, Is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils; The motions of his spirit are dull as night, And his infections dark as Erebus. Let no such man be trusted.

It is just as well, however, to remember that the Germans are probably the most musical race of Europe, and to keep an eye to other civic virtues.

The young son of a Boston editor, a Harvard graduate to boot, was being subjected to parental discipline. Within the small breast surged thoughts of fury. Presently he approached his father and fixed him with a smouldering eye.

"Father, do you know what I am going to do when I grow up?"
"No, my son."
"I'm going to Yale!"

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NOTES

WHITE STATES: FULL SUFFRAGE
SHADED STATES: PARTIAL SUFFRAGE
UNSHADED STATES: NO SUFFRAGE

Colonel Thomas Westworth Higginson contributed to the Woman's Journal about forty years ago a noteworthy editorial entitled "Follow Your Leaders." He said in part: "It is a remarkable fact, about which those who have watched this movement for twenty years can hardly be mistaken, that almost any woman who reaches a certain point of intellectual or moral development will presently be found desiring the ballot for her sex. If this be so, it predicts the future: Margaret Fuller, Clara Barton, Lydia Maria Child, Julia Ward Howe, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Louisa Alcott, came to the claim for the ballot earlier than a million others because they were the intellectual leaders of American womanhood. They saw farthest, because they were in the highest place. Their judgment is as the judgment of the council of officers."

The women who were the leaders at that time have all passed off the stage; but the women who are in the van today are still leading in the same direction. Mrs. Esther F. Boland said last week: "We ought to follow the great women leaders—Jane Addams, Dr. Katharine Bement Davis, Kate Waller Barrett, Ella Flagg Young, Florence Kelley, Maud Ballington Booth and Julia C. Lathrop—who tell us their work is handicapped by the lack of the ballot."

Three national bodies of women were added last week to the long lists that have come out for equal suffrage. The American Nurses' Association and its allied organizations, the National League of Nursing Education and the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, adopted resolutions for votes for women at their convention in San Francisco, June 26.

The action of the nurses is significant. Women who work for public health have recognized as a body the necessity of the vote in deciding public questions and choosing public officials.

Such prominent pioneers in the profession as Florence Nightingale and Clara Barton were among the first to see the need of the ballot, and the organizations in coming out for suffrage are following their ideals.

Franklin's Real Views

Those who quote Benjamin Franklin so glibly, "There never was a good war or a bad peace," alude the facts that Benjamin Franklin served with Jefferson and Adams on the committee to draft the Declaration of Independence, that he knew the adoption of the declaration meant war to the end and not quick peace; that he urged all in the Congress "to hang together or they would all hang separately"; and that, altogether, he was one of the busiest and most militant little patriots of the revolution. —Kansas City Star.

Those Cats Again

This is better than sitting up all night or buying a dog. M. E. L. Hudson, Mass., sends in this suggestion to V. M. Boston, who was troubled by cats that got into her vines and flowers. "Use cayenne pepper freely. It will not hurt the flowers, but will be too hot for the cats. I use it in both flower and vegetable gardens with good effect."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE NOTES

The misleading little map which the suffragists are so fond of displaying, and which heads their notes in the Townsman, needs a word of explanation.

When studying this map marked "White States" or "Free States," don't forget that these should be marked "Mormon States" also. The Mormon church was the originator of the votes for women idea in this country, and when Utah obtained statehood in 1896 the Mormon priests, who dominated the constitutional convention which framed the organic law, restored the woman suffrage proviso because they knew it increased the proportionate Mormon vote. Ex-Senator Frank J. Cannon of Utah is quoted as saying that "politically the Mormons control Utah by sheer numbers; by holding the balance of power they have practical control in Idaho and Wyoming, their influence is great in Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Montana, Washington, California and Oregon." It is significant that every one of these states is a woman suffrage state except New Mexico.

The "Survey" prints a map showing which states have Workmen's Compensation Laws. It is interesting to note that the four states which have had woman suffrage longest, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho, are all black on this map, showing that they have no such laws!

The Washington suffragists have secured a huge camel which is driven through the streets; on his yellow blanket is printed in large letters "Camels and women have always been the burden bearers. The society for prevention of cruelty to animals protects the camel. Protect the women by giving them the ballot." How would it do for the anti to set free an American eagle, upon whose wings should be painted in red letters these words: "For scores of years American men have worked and slaved even unto death to protect their women. Why trample under foot God-given laws? It is Dr. Lyman Abbott who says that the Bible is authority for the fact that woman is only a side issue anyway."

The Quarterly Doctor

The Chinese pay a doctor by the year to keep them well. If they fall ill, the doctor's salary from that family stops until health returns. Americans do the exact opposite.

Surely the Chinese plan is more logical. In our scheme, just at the time when extra money is most needed, when the bread-winner or house-mother is unable to work, then the doctor bill piles up. It's hard on the family and harder still, pretty often, on the doctor, who has to wait long periods for his pay. Also, one imagines, the Chinese doctor probably keeps a pretty close eye on his patients and does what he can with his original methods in the way of prevention.

A plan which combines the good features of both methods is being talked about of late. It is for everyone to undergo periodical health examinations. There is no question of the fact that many fatal diseases and degenerations could be checked or cured if taken in time. Having a thorough physical examination every three months would save many a serious illness.

The death rate, particularly for children, has been going down for several years, but that for people in middle life is going up. Much of this is due to the slow growth of diseases which are not realized by those who have them until they have reached a point where they can no longer be helped.

It is an excellent plan for every family to have the physician call once a month, look over the people and the house and give whatever advice seems wise in regard to health and hygiene. Prevention is always better than cure, as well as cheaper. This plan gives the physician a small but reliable income, and provides the family insurance. —Bangor News.

Keeping In Touch

When the up-to-date man wants to take a day off, a week-end trip, or even a month's vacation, he doesn't sigh "to get away from a telephone."

Like the late E. H. Harriman, he makes the telephone a servant, not a master; uses it when he deems it desirable to keep in touch with business affairs; and refuses to let it intrude upon his leisure, without warrant.

One talk daily to the office or factory, and for a limited period, at least—the rest of the day belongs to the man who has the right kind of an organization.

There will be no toll charge on a particular party call if you are not connected with the person whom you wish to call.

He Makes His Cows Generally Useful

Amos Steadman of Birchwood, Bay Point, Georgetown, has two very exceptional cows which he has trained to do his farm work in place of a team of horses or yoke of oxen. He ploughs, harrows, hauls wood and does all sorts of general teaming with them. These cows, in spite of their several lines of activity, average giving about twenty quarts of milk apiece each day. The animals know their names and will come at call, each awaiting the pronouncing of her own name.

A Marlboro woman was attacked by a rooster recently and nearly killed. There must be something in the air that drives rulers of nations to war and even afflicts our barnyard fowl with brainstorms.

That's the Way

"A statesman's motto," said an earnest patriot, "should always be, 'Be sure you're right, and then go ahead.'"

"Maybe so," replied a Senator, "but that's not my platform."

"What is your platform?"

"Go right ahead and square it afterwards."

Marvelous Aeroscope at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, Raises Amazed Visitors 264 Feet

FOR the seeker of amusement there is opportunity a-plenty in the great mechanical achievement, the aeroscope, on the Zone, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco. The aeroscope is built on the order of a giant crane of a novel and intricate design, with a seating capacity of 100 and standing room for twenty more. The car is perfectly balanced, and perfect safety and a jarring ride of ten minutes are assured to passengers who enjoy this trip of 264 feet into the clouds. This is four feet higher than the Ferris wheel. Two motors control the ascent and descent in conjunction with the counterbalance of this huge car, and when it reaches its extreme height it begins to swing slowly around, on the series of wheels at its base, giving the passenger a view of the surrounding country from every point.

HOT WATER

Is a household necessity; abundant hot water is the greatest domestic luxury. The most successful method of supplying this luxury in every home is with a modern "copper coil" Gas Water Heater.

Hence the Lion Double Copper Coil Water Heater provides a source from which hot water can be obtained at anytime. It is so economical that it is used to furnish quantities of hot water for the bath, kitchen and laundry. It makes household duties easier and gives you a good supply of hot water in a very few minutes.

Death and Taxes

It used to be a common saying that "nothing is sure but death and taxes". We are inclined to think there are other reasons why these two should be linked than the fact that both are "sure" to come, and perhaps one of the most important reasons for this thinking is the fact that when either does come serious disturbance follows.

The writer has seen during the past week a beautiful piece of property which if located in Andover would call for a charge of $100.00 for local taxes. Because it was located in another part of the country, the bill represented a charge a little less than $12.00, and the collector apologized to the party who received the bill because it was so large.

If death is sure, and its coming brings a disturbance, taxes are not only almost equally so but they are even more disturbing in the increasing menace that they seem to be to holders of property. It is all very well to insist that if a man has money he ought to be willing to pay the legitimate charges upon it, and that taxes represent a legitimate charge, but when the average rate of interest for real securities represents a gross return of less than five per cent and the tax collector comes along and demands one-half of this as a sort of fine upon thrift and industry, the situation becomes a very acute one. If perchance this same demand is made upon an industry whose thrift and prosperity mean much to a community, then the burden becomes even more serious.

Available statistics indicate how serious this is to Massachusetts where the debt is so great and the increasing tax burden is so alarming. Probably more manufacturing concerns have left Massachusetts for other states in the past three years than have left any other state in the Union, and this condition of things, coupled with other information along the same lines, leads one to query whether it isn't about time for assessors in Massachusetts to stop advertising the tremendous zeal controlling their efforts to find "more" and always "more taxable property".

The announcement of a tax rate, or the suggestion that it will be increased or diminished, is never made here in Massachusetts without having the statement associated with it that the assessors have been particularly diligent to secure all personal property that it is possible to find. What in the world is the use of advertising this if it is so? Isn't the assessor charged by law with the responsibility of securing to the town a tax upon everything taxable, and isn't he derelict in his duty if he fails to do so? On the other hand, has there ever been a law upon the statute books which didn't require a certain amount of decent common sense in its administration to make it either workable or just? With this case, isn't there considerable evidence at hand that the extraordinary effort being made at the present time by assessors to tax men out of existence, is largely responsible for the condition of business in Massachusetts at the present time?

No man who is at all conversant with the demands made upon the municipal treasury wherever it may be located, would attempt to justify a carrying on of municipal business along the limited lines controlling city and town a generation ago. But the startling figures which represent the change which has taken place within a generation, impress upon thoughtful people the need of beginning to remedy the high tax rate by action at the other end. We have got to stop, here in this state in particular, and mighty soon, the attempt at relief through increasing the taxes upon the people. When we raised $50,000 and had fifty thousand dollars in taxes available to pay it at a ten-dollar rate, it didn't seem to be much of a jump to increase that to $55,000, with only the same fifty thousand to pay. This made the rate eleven dollars, and the next thing it was twelve dollars, then thirteen, then fourteen, and so on until, notwithstanding the extraordinary exertion of the assessors this year to add just a little more to every man's bill in so far as valuation is concerned, we are likely to find a rate very close to twenty dollars on the thousand, or two dollars taken away from practically every five dollars income that comes to the citizen, whether it comes as a direct tax on property, or a tax represented in rent, heat and light and various other expenses of the tenant.

We have got to wake up here in Massachusetts on this question. It is much more important than selecting a certain individual for Governor, or giving women the right to vote. There is nothing today so vital to the future of Massachusetts as a relief from the present condition controlling the burden put upon business by the extravagant trend in state, county and municipal expenditures and the attitude of the assessors in attempting to meet that trend by squeezing the last dollar wherever it is possible to find it. The dollar first becomes a dodger, and ultimately a runaway.

Editorial Cinders

With the introduction of the sewer on Elm Street the way will be clear for improvement there on the surface itself, and the improvement won't come a bit too soon. It is an awful street with the "bump the bumps" in better working order than anywhere else in the state unless it be in the city of Boston. Let us hope for a first-class job that will stand the wear of the heavy traffic, both local and through, which makes Elm Street an important part of the highway service of this section.

The advertisement by the Board of Public Works of the contract for constructing the Abbott Village sewer seems to guarantee that this work is pretty sure to go on within a short time. It will be interesting to see how closely the actual bids come to the rosy pictures painted in the town meeting as to what the cost would be, and it will further be very interesting to see what the actual cost of the sewer to an abuttor will be when connections have been made. It looks like a very expensive job particularly for those who must make use of it, but "the dancer must pay the fiddler", and Abbott Village must pay in this particular case for that which they seem to want so badly. Let us hope that the Board of Public Works will get a favorable bid, for certainly some relief is needed for that section of the town.

The location of the postoffice is not at all a settled matter, even though there has been some assurance that further and careful consideration will be given to the desires of the people of Andover. From further investigation it seems pretty clear that a very well laid plan is being worked upon by those who desire to build a new building on Essex Street, and that it is going to be rather difficult, whatever the opinion of the townspeople may be, to keep these outsiders who have got the way so well greased, from carrying out their desires. An interesting phase of the whole situation is that which makes it difficult for those who know anything about the matter to understand how this apparent "outside" element could have gotten quite so far in their schemes without some "inside" help.

An automobile traveler told the writer this week that he believed the highways of Massachusetts were more poorly looked after, as far as giving directions to the traveler is concerned, than those in any of the other New England States. From some information that we have been able to obtain, we are inclined to think that this comparison might apply to all the states of the Union, and one cannot help wondering whether or not the assumption made of the superiority of the state highways of Massachusetts and the service they render, is not rather far-fetched. The roads of Massachusetts are blind alleys when it comes to getting from one place to another, as compared to the roads of New Hampshire, for example, with their various colored guide-posts along the way to direct one from one end of the state to the other on through travel. It wouldn't seem as if Massachusetts had any right to assume that she was so perfect as she apparently does, in the light of such splendid service as the highways of New Hampshire give to the traveler.

OBITUARIES

Miss Emily E. Currier passed away at the home of her brother, William D. Currier, 37 Maple avenue, on Tuesday evening, after an illness of about two months, at the age of 53 years, 11 months and 3 days. After suffering from a shock some time ago she seemed to be in a fair way to recovery when on Sunday she had a relapse and died on Tuesday evening.

Miss Currier was born in Wentworth, N. H., in 1862, and after being educated in the public schools of that town, attended Robinson Seminary at Exeter. Since coming to Andover she has made her home with her brother and for a number of years was a bookkeeper in the wholesale grocery of Currier-Todd Company in Lawrence. She was a regular attendant at the Baptist church and was a devout worker in all the societies connected with the church.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist church on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. W. E. Lombard officiating, and the remains were taken to Exeter, N. H., for interment.

CLARENCE J. CASHMAN

Clarence J. Cashman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cashman, passed away at the family home in Chapman court on last Sunday. The little fellow had been ill but a few days and his death came unexpectedly to his parents and relatives.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. E. Victor Bigelow officiating. Interment was in Spring Grove cemetery.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS

Fred Lesler of Dorchester Loses Life in Martin's Pond.
Helen Yeings of Ballardvale Found in Shawsheen River

Fred Lesler of Wells avenue, Dorchester, was drowned Sunday afternoon in Martin's pond, North Reading.

Lesler, with three other young men from Greater Boston, rowed out from their camp on the shore of the pond and dived from the boat, swimming out in various directions. Walter Smith of Somerville, John Husband of Malden and James Shea of Charlestown returned to the boat after swimming for some time. Then Lesler was nowhere in sight.

A short time afterward, a hand was seen to rise out of the water some distance from the boat. The men rowed to the place where it had appeared, and began to dive for their companion. They found the water a few feet under the surface very cold, as though a spring emptied into the lake there. They could not dive to the bottom.

Citizens came, later in the afternoon, and dragged the place with grappling-irons until late Sunday night. A professional diver was employed on Monday, and the body was found Tuesday afternoon.

Lesler ate a hearty dinner just before he began to swim, and it is thought that this made him an easy prey to cramps when he entered the cold water at the bottom of the lake.

The body of Helen Yeings, the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Yeings of Andover street, Ballardvale, was recovered from the waters of the Shawsheen river on Wednesday morning after a search by the Andover police, assisted by neighbors and friends of the girl's parents. The body was seen entangled in some bushes on the banks of the river, by Robert Allison, son of Superintendent of Schools J. Francis Allison, while he was canoeing, and he immediately notified the police. Medical Examiner Dow of Lawrence was informed and he viewed the remains.

Miss Yeings was last seen alive at her home on last Saturday afternoon. It is said that she was reproved by her mother for withdrawing a sum of money from the local savings bank with which to buy some clothes, and that as a result she threatened to commit suicide. That she carried out her threat or that her death was accidental is not known. When found, a fishing-line was entwined around her wrist and neck and it is thought not improbable that she had been fishing when she fell into the water accidentally. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Everett J. Lundgren and the funeral was held this afternoon.

Miss Yeings was the only child of her parents, who have the sympathy of the entire community in the sad loss of their daughter. There were a number of conflicting stories regarding the disappearance of the girl, one that she had gone to Salem, N. H., with the Ballardvale baseball team after having been forbidden to do so by her mother, and that she had gone away in fear of punishment for disobedience. From close friends of the family it was learned that it was quite improbable that she would take her life, as she was of a gay and happy disposition and not like a girl who would brood over some fancied wrong done her. It will probably never be known whether her death was from accident or suicide.

The funeral was held at her late home on Andover street at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. There were a large number of her friends and neighbors present, as the young girl's bright and sunny nature made her a great favorite wherever she went. Rev. Mr. Bowers of St. Augustine's Episcopal church in South Lawrence conducted the services which were very impressive. Six of her young friends—Louis Wrigley, F. Shattuck, J. Cronin, Geo. Bruce, J. Platt and J. Henderson, acted as pallbearers. The many beautiful floral tributes showed the esteem in which she was held by her many friends. Interment was in Spring Grove cemetery.

I. O. G. T. Notes

The Independence Day concert in aid of the juvenile branch of the Good Templars was brought to a very successful conclusion Monday evening. Both the character of the entertainment and the financial returns were very satisfactory. William Boodle of Haverhill, the chairman, addressed his opening remarks to an audience that packed the hall to the doors. He said that such a gathering plainly showed the popularity of the lodge in this town, and was sure that with such support Abbott Village lodge would prove a factor in the fight against the liquor traffic. The program was as follows:

Song—Far Across the Sea Robert Dargill
Song—Sweet Jessie Dear Mrs. Geo. Pyfe
Dance—Highland Fling Miss Helen Scannell
Song—Just Like Being at Home Henry Fairweather
Song—Les Rig William Benson
Selections on Musical Instruments Kirk Auchterlonie and Chas. Murphy

Song—She's the Lass for Me Daniel Low
Song—Mona Mrs. F. Ross
Song—A Letter from Home William Boodle
Song—When I Dream of Old Erin Gladys Snyder

The Excelsior Club conducted a dance in the hall after the concert to which many of the younger people remained and finished a very pleasant evening.

The Dollar Day

Which the Lawrence merchants are holding Tuesday, July 13th, is not only a boom for Lawrence but the greatest opportunity for the purchasing public ever known in New England. Every merchant cooperating to make this day a success by offering values for one dollar, double and in some cases more than double their value, is bound to make the purchasing power of the dollar greater than ever before on seasonable merchandise.

FOURTH SANELY OBSERVED

Large Crowds Witnessed Road Race and Ball Games.
Band Concert and Fireworks Entertain in the Evening.

The Fourth of July celebration in Andover brought out a large number of townspeople and visitors who enjoyed the program arranged by the committee. There were not as many features to the celebration this year as have been given in the past, but the events were interesting.

The celebration was formally ushered in at 6 a.m. with the ringing of the church and mill bells. The five-mile road race was the next event scheduled, and promptly at 9 o'clock Postmaster John H. McDonald sent nine entrants off from the tape in the square. The course was as follows: Main street to Salem to Highland road to the Salem Turnpike to Wilson's corner to Elm street to the finish in Elm square. The contest was limited to residents of Andover, and the following young men started: Peter Dugan, Jr., James Dugan, John Carse, George Knipe, Michael Byrnes, James Coates, James Miner, Patrick Donovan and George Broadhurst. During the first part of the race the contestants were fairly well bunched, but on reaching Highland road James Dugan took the lead and gained considerable distance over the other runners, his brother Peter following him at a distance of about 50 yards. His strenuous efforts overtaxed his strength and he was forced to give up and rested by the roadside. After a rest for a few minutes he again took up the race and continued to Wilson's Corner, but was forced to retire here.

Peter Dugan ran a heady and consistent race from beginning to end. He had plenty of reserve strength to make a sprint during the last 100 yards and he came in a winner in the last time of 32 minutes, 10 seconds. He had laid his plans carefully for the race and with some previous experience knew where his best efforts could be made. He finished strong and received hearty applause from the assembled crowd. George Broadhurst ran a strong race and finished second about two minutes after the winner. John Carse took third place after a good run. The prizes were a silver cup for the first, silver watch for second, and watch fob for third.

The next event on the program was the baseball game between the R. C.

O. A. and the Clerks, for a purse of $10, which was won by the former in a five-inning game, being called off at the end of this session on account of the heavy rain. The victors secured an early lead in the first inning as a result of two passes, three singles and a double, aided by an infield error. The score:

The leading article in this month's "Photo-Era" is by Robert W. Tobbs. "Architectural Photography" is well worth reading several times as it covers the subject thoroughly and cannot fail to prove helpful. The illustrations are fine examples of this class of work.

Philip Conklin contributes a very interesting page on "How to Prevent Halation." The results of Mr. Conklin's experiments are clearly shown in the single illustration.

A remarkable photograph is reproduced on page 18, showing a monoplane in flight with a background of fleecy clouds.

"Photography as a Means of Expression" is another worth-while article and the author, B. H. Wentworth, shows some splendid examples of landscape work.

"Black and White Reproductions" by F. Sherman Vogt, and "Floral Compositions" by William S. Davis complete an unusually interesting number of this popular magazine.

Clarence H. Weeks of Central street has taken out nomination papers for representative on the Republican ticket. Mr. Weeks' entry into the contest makes the fifth to announce his candidacy.

Mr. Weeks is well known among the younger people of the town, being employed by the Wabash Railroad at their Boston office. He is also a member of the Andover Club, and is at present commodore of the Andover Canoe Club.

INVADERS SUFFER HEAVY LOSS

Defenders Have Had Upper Hand Everywhere During This Week's Fighting, Conditions Still Favoring Them—Germans Make Another Desperate Attempt to Capture Verdun—Many Austrian Prisoners Taken by Italians—Revival of Criticism of Tactics Which Resulted in Terrible Slaughter in Dardanelles—Attack of Turks Repulsed by Allies

Germany's fifth great drive at Warsaw has been definitely checked. Reinforcements hurried from the north have at last come up with the fleeing troops from Galicia, south of Lublin, and have administered a severe defeat to the Austro-German pursuers in the Kraunk region of southern Poland.

Kraunk is about twenty-five miles south of Lublin, the latter regarded as the back door to Warsaw, being a most important railway centre on the line through Lvov to the capital. The Teutonic plan of campaign, as now interpreted in London, involving a crashing advance through Lublin and Lvov to the capital, has thus met with a check a few miles inside the Polish border.

After her precipitate flight from Galicia, Russia has now time to catch her breath, and has the advantage of numbers and of physical conditions on her side.

The stretch of country into which the Austro-Germans have now penetrated is a wild, barren waste, about 150 miles wide, in which there are no railroads and only two towns of any size. The Russians, on the other hand, are backed by a network of railroads over which they can hurry troops and guns to any threatened point.

Unofficial dispatches, coming from Austrian sources by way of Switzerland, admit that in the battling around Kraunk the Russians have everywhere had the upper hand since Monday, and state that the tentative invaders have suffered enormous losses, thousands of wounded having arrived at Lemberg, Przemyśl and Jaroslau.

German Effort to Take Verdun in furtherance of the desperate attempt of the Germans on the western front to draw their lines about the French fortress of Verdun, another big offensive was launched along that portion of the southeastern side of the St. Mihiel "wedge" which extends from the Meuse valley just south of Alilly to a point in the forest of Apremont.

The army of the German crown prince is here on the offensive and is making determined efforts to recapture the ground which it lost in April when the French attempted to tip off the St. Mihiel salient.

In the present attempt they were, for the most part, repulsed, although the movement was preceded by an exceedingly severe bombardment, but at one point they penetrated the first line of French trenches along a front of about one-third of a mile.

Near St. Mihiel, in the Le Pote forest, another German attack was accompanied by the hurling of flaming liquids but the attackers were unable to make headway, and were driven back to their original positions.

Artillery combats continue from Arras to the sea, and it is stated that as a result of the German bombardment Arras is in flames. The Germans also claim to have retaken the trenches which they lost to the British north of Ypres.

Italy Reports Successes—The greatest number of prisoners yet taken by the Italian armies operating in the Isonzo valley is reported by the official report from the Rome war office.

During the past two or three days 18,000 Austrians were captured on the Carso plateau, where the Italian forces are slowly pressing forward in an attempt to cut the last line of rail communication left to Gorizia.

On the Carle front, farther north, Italian bombardments have caused great damage to the Austrian fortifications at Lacorte, Taglia and Tredassi.

Berlin dispatches announce the repulse of the Italian attacks on the bridgehead at Gorizia, declaring that King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Salandra were present when the Italian troops were driven back. They state that the Italian losses were extremely heavy, hundreds of dead bodies being left on the field when the invaders fell back.

The Dardanelles Conflict—A general attack by Turkish troops on the Dardanelles expeditionary force of the allies was repulsed. The Moslems were mown down in masses and failed to drive home the assault at any point, according to the French war office, which gave out an announcement describing the engagement.

The statement declares the attack was the most important delivered since early in May, and that it was launched with the purpose of driving the invaders into the sea. A Turkish cruiser in the Dardanelles took part in the engagement, as did the batteries on the Asiatic shore. Aviators were active, Turkish airmen bombarding the French and British lines and French and British flyers throwing bombs on Turkish positions.

"Unforgivable bungling" is the London Times' criticism of the "naval Haskiava" which preceded the amphibious campaign against the Dardanelles. How any one could believe that warships unsupported by an army could force the Dardanelles is not understandable. Only a simultaneous land and water attack could prevail.

This mistake has cost thousands of lives and will cost many more. The Turks and their German coaches did a good job in fortification and concentration between the time the fleet failed to carry the strait and the time the army arrived. This revival of criticism is aroused by General Hamilton's report of the British landing at the Dardanelles.

DODGES TORPEDOES

But Steamer's Captain and Many of Her Crew Are Killed

With nine dead sailors stretched on her deck, nine men lying wounded below and her sides riddled with shot and shell, the British steamship Anglo-Californian steamed into Queens-town harbor after having withstood the attack of a German submarine for four hours.

Seven Americans, all cattlemen, were aboard the Anglo-Californian. It is not yet known whether any are among the killed or wounded.

The ship's escape from destruction was accomplished with no other means of defense than the indomitable spirit of her captain and crew, combined with masterly seamanship, which enabled her to frustrate the efforts of her assailant to torpedo her.

APOLOGIZES TO SWEDEN

Russia Violated Neutrality in Shelling German Mine Layer

The Russian government has apologized to Sweden for the violation of the latter nation's neutrality by the fact that a stray shell "accidentally" fell within Swedish waters, owing to a fog, during the pursuit of German vessels, says a dispatch from Petrograd.

The German mine layer Albatross was badly punished by Russian warships in the naval battle in the Baltic sea on July 2 and fled into Swedish territorial waters, where she was run aground near Helsingfors. Russian ships pursued her within the three-mile limit.

One hundred and thirteen others, including Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman; J. B. Bell, mayor of Indianapolis, and Samuel Perrott, chief of police, asked for a change of venue from Judge Collins.

Of the defendants, some are in prison, some sick, one dead, others have not been arrested, and three were not ready for trial.

Collins told those who had asked for a change of venue that he would select five members from the Marion county bar, from which list one would be chosen to try the cases.

A dynamite bomb was exploded in an arway outside the detective bureau at New York police headquarters. While a heavy door was blown ten feet and a number of windows on one side of the building were shattered, no one was injured.

Five prisoners locked in a cell twenty feet from the place where the bomb exploded also escaped injury, although fragments of metal pierced the ceiling of their cells.

The damaged part of the building is close to Inspector Faurot's office. Faurot has charge of the Holt investigation.

Former President Diaz Dies in Exile in His Paris Home

LONG AND CHECKERED CAREER

Madero Revolution Caused His Resignation in 1911 After He Had For Thirty-Five Years Ruled Mexico With Iron Hand—Fought Against United States in War of 1847

General Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, died at Paris. He had been in failing health since reaching Europe in 1911, after his resignation from the presidency of Mexico following the successful Madero revolution. He had consistently declined to comment on the passing phases of the Mexican situation.

Diaz's wife and their son, Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and the latter's wife were the only ones at the bedside when the end came.

Death seems to have been brought about by failure of the heart, which was weakened by a severe attack of grippe last year. This illness also left the aged exile almost blind. Nevertheless, he was accustomed to walk out daily during the past spring.

Diaz announced on May 25, 1911, his resignation from the presidency of Mexico, after having been master of the country for thirty-five years.

The revolution led by Francisco I. Madero, Jr., had brought about the aged president's reported pledge early in 1911 to resign his office in a bargain for peace, but on May 24, the day on which the resignation was expected, it was not forthcoming. Riots occurred that day in Mexico City, during which many persons were killed.

The national palace was stoned by mobs shouting "Viva, Madero," and demanding to know why Diaz did not resign. The next day he read his letter of resignation to the chamber of deputies. A large majority voted aye, the other legislators rose and bowed their affirmation as their names were called.

The minister of foreign affairs, Francisco Leon de la Barra, was immediately chosen provisional president and Diaz, of whom for years all Mexico had stood in awe, left the capital secretly the next day, to embark at Vera Cruz for Europe. Since then he has lived virtually an exile in Paris and other European cities, a silent observer of still more troublesome times in the land he had long ruled.

Diaz was born in 1830. His family were of old Spanish stock with an infusion of Indian blood. Left fatherless at the age of 3, he was educated at the expense of the bishop of Oaxaca with the intention of becoming a priest, but he eventually turned to law and then at the outbreak of the war with the United States in 1847 turned to a military career.

He served throughout that struggle in a militia company which he helped to organize, and after peace was declared he made a special study of military science. He and one other were the only two in the country who dared openly to oppose the consolidation of Santa Anna's dictatorship. His execution was ordered, but he escaped and joined Herrera's revolt.

He speedily made a reputation as a soldier, and as a brigadier general he was the chief thorn in the side of the French forces, when, taking advantage of the civil war in the United States, they attempted to place Archduke Maximilian of Austria on the throne of a Mexican empire. Diaz harassed the enemy constantly, and in June, 1867, captured Mexico City with his forces.

On the re-establishment of the republic he was unsuccessful as a candidate for president. But in 1877 he was elected to fill the unexpired term of fugitive President Lerdo. His eighth and last election was in July, 1910.

To Diaz was given credit for the advance of Mexico to the status of a stable, progressive, and prosperous government, although the autocratic methods he employed were widely criticized.

PUT DYNAMITE ON STEAMSHIP

Holt Planned to Blow Up Saxonia of Philadelphia

CLIMAX TO DRAMATIC EVENTS

Navy Department Wireless Stations Enlisted to Prevent Threatened Disaster—Dynamiter Who Killed Himself Now Known to Have Been Muehlen, Who Murdered His Wife

The dead hand of Frank Holt, assassin, bomb-maker and wife murderer, reached out over the Atlantic and menaced with dynamite two transatlantic liners with nearly 1000 men, women and children aboard.

Somewhere on the ocean, Holt wrote his wife, the liner Saxonia of the Philadelphia—he wasn't sure which—would be destroyed July 7. A dynamite bomb, containing thirty pounds of explosive which Holt is known to have received and which has not been accounted for, is believed by the police to be the means Holt had chosen to destroy the ship.

While Holt lay in his cell at Minnesota, L. I., where he was taken after his attempted assassination of J. P. Morgan, the wireless crackled a warning over the Atlantic telling of his threat to blow up a ship; and the mystery of his life was cleared away with his positive identification as Erich Muehlen, the wife murderer who fled Cambridge, Mass., in 1906. He was an instructor at Harvard university at the time of the murder.

Nothing more dramatic in the last few crowded days of Holt's life has come to light than the warning of destruction that was uncovered after his death.

His confession that he placed the bomb in the Capitol at Washington on July 7, his attempted assassination of J. P. Morgan, the growing belief that he was Erich Muehlen, culminating in his positive identification as Holt, an assassin, and his sensational suicide by leaping eighteen feet from the top of his cell to the floor, formed a series of events in which the threatened destruction of the Philadelphia or the Saxonia fitted as a startling climax.

The powerful wireless stations of the navy department were enlisted in the effort to prevent the threatened disaster at sea.

In answer to the warning there was received a message from the captain of the Philadelphia which said that everything aboard had been identified and that all was well.

Later in the day a similar message was received from Captain Higgle of the Saxonia.

The vessels then proceeded on their respective courses to Liverpool, carrying between them 935 passengers, with whom they left New York July 3. However, the tension caused by Holt's warnings was not entirely relieved because of the uncertainty whether he had not left explosives aboard other steamers.

The warning was issued to the steamers as the result of a note written by Holt to his wife a short time before he took his life in Minnesota jail.

An autopsy established the fact that Holt committed suicide by leaping head foremost from an iron bar on the side of his cell to the concrete floor in the Minnesota, L. I., jail while the keeper's back was turned. Walter R. Jones, the Minnesota coroner, issued a statement after an autopsy had been performed by the prison physician. He said: "Holt came to his death by a compound fracture of the skull and cerebral hemorrhage caused by a fall."

Investigation is in progress to ascertain whether his suicide was due to negligence of any jail official. The shipment to New York of Holt's trunk containing dynamite enough to destroy a city block is also the subject of inquiry.

Police officials inspected the cottage at Central Park, L. I., where Holt had spent two weeks conducting experiments in the manufacture of internal machines and in target practice with a revolver.

The shooting of Morgan. Two bullets fired at Morgan penetrated his hip but neither pierced the abdomen. The first shot struck the right hip and went through in a line almost horizontal, deflecting and slightly downward. The second shot struck nearer the groin and was deflected much more sharply downward. This shot came out of the upper leg.

Morgan continues to improve so much that specialists in attendance announced that he was out of all danger. His temperature and pulse are normal.

Holt was an American citizen, native born, 35 years old, and educated above the average. He had been a student at Cornell and later an instructor there in German.

Amusement Park Safe Looted. Four robbers overpowered two watchmen at the Midway Gardens a Chicago amusement park, blew open the safe and escaped with between $10,000 and $12,000.

Changes in Postmasters' Pay. Salary increases averaging $100 each were granted to 2225 postmasters and corresponding reductions were made in the pay of 1238 others.

PTOMACHINE IS SUSPECTED

Investigation of Poison Epidemic at Westbury Is Under Way

Thirty-eight persons are seriously ill, and a poison epidemic investigation was put under way to determine the responsibility for the epidemic of ptomaine poisoning at Westbury, N. Y. Timothy Sullivan died Tuesday, and his daughter, Julia, is reported to be near death. Five of the cases now under treatment have been reported.

The inquiry is being conducted by F. A. Strickland, state chemist, and F. A. Jackson, both members of the state pure food and drug commission. These men, with Dr. Scanlon, local medical examiner, visited a restaurant from which the poison is thought to have come, and took away samples of the ingredients with which the food was made. Liquid and powdered insect killer, thought possible to have been accidentally mixed in the food, was also taken away.

Several of the cases now under treatment are said to be critical, but recovery in the majority of them is anticipated.

They all pleaded not guilty and were held in $3000 surety for appearance for trial.

This makes thirty-seven arrests in the election fraud cases, thirty-two having been arrested last week in North Providence and Coventry on the charge of conspiracy to corrupt and subvert the last congressional election.

Jitneys in Smashup

A Lawrence man was injured and a number of passengers were given severe joltings when two jitney buses operating between Lawrence and Lowell came together with a crash near Perry street, Kenwood, about 9:30 o'clock Monday night.

One car, containing ten occupants, and driven by Linwood Foster of Lowell, was headed for Lawrence, and the other machine, containing four passengers besides the driver, Henry J. Shorten of Andover, was bound for Lowell.

The accident occurred when one of the jitneys, in attempting to pass a team on the road, turned out just in time to crash into the opposite-bound machine. Foster's car was quite badly damaged and a Lawrence passenger was injured, sustaining, it is believed, a broken leg. He was removed to a Lawrence hospital. J. W. Carroll of Lowell, a passenger, was thrown into the road and the occupants of both cars received a severe shaking up. Shorten's machine was practically undamaged, while that of Foster had a front wheel taken off, a mudguard bent and other damages.

"Why, dear," said the mother upon noticing her little girl standing before a mirror and making the most hideous faces, "what are you doing?" "I'm getting ready, mother, to go over to tell Nellie Smith what I think of her."

LAWRENCE

The fire department had an unusually quiet holiday, being called out by only three bell alarms and none of the fires was of any great consequence.

The Riverside Congregational Church Sunday School picnic will be held Saturday at York Grove. Special cars will leave the transfer station at nine o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Gould of Thorndike street announce the engagement of their daughter, Marion Francis, to Charles Henry Smith of Jacksonville, Fla., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Smith of Nashua, N. H. Miss Gould attended Lawrence High School and graduated from Abbot Academy in 1912.

Local Democrats were highly pleased with the news that came from Boston Tuesday to the effect that James Augustine Donovan, chairman of the Democratic committee, had been nominated by Governor Walsh as a member of the Board of Labor and Industries to succeed S. M. Gunn, resigned. His name was sent to the governor's council for ratification and it is regarded as almost certain that the nomination will be approved. Mr. Donovan's term would be five years at a salary of $4500 a year.

Lawrence will receive first prize for the best exhibit of a city's resources, manufactures and administration, at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, according to advices received from Charles C. Bower, secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Panama-Pacific Managers. Under the leadership of its Chamber of Commerce, and with the cooperation of many of its manufacturers and merchants, Lawrence contributed an unusually large and interesting municipal exhibit to the big Frisco Fair. It is a matter of pride to Massachusetts people that a Massachusetts city wins the coveted first prize.

Lawrence merchants, one and all, big and small, are planning on giving the people of this city and the surrounding towns an opportunity on Tuesday of next week to make purchases of necessary articles in every line at reduced prices. It is to be a gala day for the people who want to go after bargains and get what they will be convinced are genuine bargains. R. H. Sigart presided at a meeting of the merchants held to discuss plans for "Dollar Day."

It was agreed upon that the merchants would plan to offer such "Dollar Day" bargains as would surely appeal to the public. This will not be a "bargain sale" for the women only, but more of a family affair. Everything—father, mother, son or daughter needs will be put in at bargain prices. And as before stated, the bargains will be bargains. With favorable weather the people of Lawrence and surrounding towns will flock to Lawrence's business mart to inspect values to be offered. Plans will be made for attractive window displays in addition to the more extensive showing of products within the stores.

The Holiday in Lawrence

The Independence Day celebration in this city was unusually quiet. There was the usual cowbell and tin horn parade the night before; officially, however, the day was tame enough. There was nothing to attract outsiders to Lawrence and there was little to keep Lawrenceans at home. Accordingly few visitors came and many whose homes are here spent the day at the beaches and other resorts.

The municipal celebration opened with a sunrise salute (after the sun had been up more than an hour) and closed with a sunset salute (an hour before the sun disappeared). The salutes were given on the common by the first and second sections of Battery C—21 guns morning and evening and 48 at noon. There was also bell-ringing at these times. The morning salutes attracted a very small crowd, but hundreds went to the common at noon and night to hear the guns go off.

The sections of the battery that fired the salutes were in charge of Lieutenant W. W. Roberts and were composed of the following men: Section one—Sergeant Harry Smith, Gunner's Corporal Joseph Peague, Privates Henry Thibault, number one; Henry Gardner, number two; Edward Gorman, number three; Edward Whittemore, lead driver; Private LaCroix, pole. Section two—Sergeant John Steindel, Gunner's Corporal Fred Hoffman, Privates Ernest Carter, number one; Bernard Coia, number two; Harold Gardner, number three; Wm. Jordan, lead driver; Henry Beaumier, pole.

The only other official observance of the day were the sports on the playground. There were no band concerts and no fireworks.

METHUEN

The firemen had a busy time of it Sunday night and Monday morning answering false alarms, the department being called out by five false alarms. The only fire was a slight fire in "The Pines."

The annual Fourth of July outing of the Epworth League members of the M. E. church was held Monday at Island Pond. There were about one hundred in the party which left the square at an early hour in two trucks.

A summer school for the children of the Pleasant Valley district opened on Tuesday with Miss Mary Bailey in charge. The school is being financed by Samuel Adams Chapter, D. A. R. A school for children of kindergarten age was also opened in the Arlington building. Miss Elsa Hefer is in charge. This school is self-supporting.

A Ford car, operated as a jitney between Lawrence and Lowell, collided with a pole near Barker's corner about nine o'clock Monday night and several of the passengers were shaken up. One girl whose name the police were unable to learn, had her wrist out. According to Louis Bourgeois of 151 Orchard street, who was a passenger, there were seven passengers in the car. The girl who was injured, the chauffeur and Mr. Bourgeois were in the front seat, and five in the rear seat. The girl was injured by her hand going through the glass windshield. She was taken to the Jackson home, where her injuries were dressed.

While the holiday was more quiet than it has been for years, and the police made few arrests for unwarranted liberties in the celebration, Chief Oliver and his men had a busy time of it Sunday with the result that six alleged gamblers appeared before court Tuesday to answer to the charge of gambling on the Lord's day, and Thursday several liquor cases were heard. Chief Oliver had special officers on duty Sunday night and Monday, but no arrests were made for excesses in celebration. Fewer attempts to start fires were made this year than in the past and there was little injury to property reported. No accidents were reported to the police from fireworks.

William Duncan of 264 Arnold street, together with Louis Pfeiffer of 22 Arnold street and two women and two boys, were thrown out of the Ford auto in which they were riding Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when, turning into Miller street from Milk street, the machine turned turtle. Duncan received a dislocated shoulder and bruises about the shoulders and face, while the others received minor scratches and a bad shaking up. Just as the machine was turning a corner near the curbstone a blowout in one of the tires occurred and the car lurched to one side and keeled over. Those who were injured were taken into the home of a physician nearby and had their injuries treated after which they went home.

NORTH ANDOVER

The last service for the summer will take place at the North Parish Unitarian church Sunday.

The Methodist Sunday School will hold its annual picnic at Canobie Lake, Saturday, July 17.

Not in years has the Fourth of July been celebrated in as quiet and orderly manner. Old hilarious and noisy exuberance was almost entirely lacking. There was a good crowd of young people out throughout the night before but it wasn't the crowd of the old days that defied the law and police and ran wild throughout the parish.

Robert Bigelow Houghton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Houghton of Davis street, formerly principal of the Pollard school of Billerica, and Miss Helen Marion Wilkins of Billerica were united in marriage Monday evening at the bride's home. Rev. Herbert E. Benton of Lowell, a cousin of the bride, officiated and was assisted by Rev. J. Harold Dale of Billerica. The bride was handsomely dressed.

The fireworks and band concert on the park closed the day's celebration. Nearly 2000 people were present to enjoy these two interesting features. The heavy rain of the previous three or four days had dampened the fireworks to such an extent that they did not show as brilliantly as usual, but under the conditions they were very satisfactory.

The music by the band consisted of selections from operas, marches and popular music.

The Eighth Regiment Here

Andover presented a real warlike appearance on last Saturday and Sunday, when the Eighth Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, was encamped here. The occasion was the annual "day" manoeuvres of the soldiers, and Andover was selected as one of the towns where an over-night stop was to be made. The camp was pitched on the Phillips Academy land near Rabbit's Pond and the spot was pronounced ideal by the soldiers. The land was high and dry and although there was a hard rain during early Sunday morning, the boys were comfortable and awoke without being drenched, as had been the case on the three preceding evenings.

The advance guard reached Andover shortly after dinner and the main body descended on the field about five o'clock. After performing the regular routine of camp duty the boys were allowed to spend the evening as they wished. Some stayed around the camp, while many came down town where they spent money freely in the various stores. About thirty or forty of them had a very jolly time in the square, singing, dancing and going through various forms of fake drills. There was a large audience of townspeople who watched the fun until 11 o'clock when the boys decided to "turn in" for the night.

Early on Sunday morning the bugle sounded and the order was given for breaking camp. In a remarkably short time the tents were down and the soldiers were given the command to march. On leaving Andover they proceeded to Tewksbury where they encountered the Sixth Regiment which was stationed there to keep the invading army out of Lowell. A sharp conflict ensued in which the invading army was successful.

The soldiers pitched their tents in Lowell on Sunday night and took part in the parade on Monday, after which they were "mustered out" and allowed to return to their homes.

Fourth of July Celebration

Everybody was happy and thoroughly enjoyed the program for the Fourth of July celebration in our village. The numerous showers and the regular downpour of rain in the forenoon greatly interfered with the ballgame, and still there were many good features in the game on the playstead in the forenoon between the village team and the Old Timers. Although Ballardvale won, 6 to 2, the Old Timers made things interesting for them, but the weather conditions were such that it was impossible for either team to show their best game. The score follows:

Observed Eightieth Birthday

Mrs. Mary S. Lowe quietly observed her eightieth birthday, Sunday, July 4, at her home on High street. Her children and grandchildren were present with the exception of her son Willard, wife and son Everett of Providence, who were unavoidably absent. Mrs. Lowe was the recipient of many remembrances including flowers, letters and cards. Luncheon was served at 6 o'clock, of which a beautifully decorated cake with eighty lighted candles, was a feature. The decorations of the table were red, white and blue. A poem composed and read by Miss Lucretia Lowe, which contained many bright and apt allusions, added greatly to the enjoyment of the company. The party was a complete surprise to Mrs. Lowe, to whom, with all present, it proved a very happy occasion. Those present were Mrs. Mary S. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lowe, their daughter Lucretia and son Philip, of Andover, Mrs. H. Ida Lowe and daughter Gladys of Wilmington, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith.

Here Mr. Morrissey jumped from the carriage and his companion, Edward Murphy, was thrown out. The former was uninjured but received a coating of mud. The latter received a severe cut over his eyes. The horse crossed the railroad tracks after freeing himself from the carriage, and was later caught in the Smith & Dove yard. The carriage was slightly damaged.

Enemies of Flies

A confectioner's shop was quite free of flies, though all the cakes and sweetmeats were uncovered. "That mignonette," said the shopkeeper, "is what keeps the flies away. The odor is so unpleasant to flies that they won't come near us."

It is a good idea. One sprig of mignonette in your window will keep it free of flies.

Will You Read This Twice?

A very important question to-day which every housekeeper must decide for herself is whether she prefers pure, cream of tartar, baking powder like Royal or whether she is willing to use baking powder made of inferior substitutes which do not add healthful qualities to the food.

One kind is easily distinguished from the other, since the laws of various States require the ingredients to be printed upon the label. If anyone is in doubt which kind is most healthful, it is worth while to ask the family doctor. Then decide.

And when once a decision is reached let no advertisement or dealer's argument or canvasser's solicitation change the decision. It is not a question of a few cents or of pleasing a salesman. It is a question of health.

If this appeals to you as reasonable and sensible advice, it is worth reading twice. And it is worth remembering.
